Congratulations to Norma Aguirre, Lwbba Chait and Ana Rebeca Alvarez-Malo for receiving a full scholarship to the Research Methods in Public Health Symposium, August 3-7, 2009! This symposium is hosted by Harvard University. The objective of this symposium is to update and enhance the participants’ knowledge on the current state of research methods in Public Health, focusing on the discussion and exchange of knowledge of the most controversial topics in the field. The other goal of this symposium is to enrich and enhance the knowledge in the areas of design and review of studies and publications on the topic of health. The topics and methodologies will be of particular interest and relevancy to the professors in the field of Public Health in both Latin America and Spain.